Two Nevada Chiropractic Physicians Board Members Honored

Las Vegas, Nevada – June 27, 2017 – Nevada Governor Brian Sandoval has received a letter honoring two members of the Chiropractic Physicians' Board of Nevada. The letter, from the Federation of Chiropractic Licensing Boards, specifically recognizes CPBN president Dr. Benjamin Lurie and secretary/treasurer Dr. Jason Jaeger. Jaeger and Lurie, who are NCC members, were commended for their commitment to protecting the health, safety, and welfare of Nevada citizens. The honor was issued after the FCLB's annual May meeting in Orlando, Florida.

"I was honored to be named the guest host of the 91st annual meeting," said Dr. Benjamin Lurie. "Both, Dr. Jaeger and I were able to witness history as our friend and colleague, Dr Maggie Colucci, became the first woman to be named FCLB president. It was an honor to represent the great State of Nevada."

State board members from the U.S. and provincial regulators from Canada attend each year as volunteers to teach and learn from each other to upgrade the quality of chiropractic regulation and public protection. States and provinces benefit, because FCLB membership guarantees access to cost-saving ideas, advance warning about new challenges, and opportunities to pool resources with other boards.

"As the treasurer and secretary for the Nevada Chiropractic Physicians Board, it was my honor to represent Nevada as the voting delegate to the Federation of Chiropractic Licensing Boards," added Dr. Jaeger. "Working with doctors from all fifty states brings a constructive and positive perspective as a regulator."

The annual FCLB educational conferences help board members, staff, and representatives from the offices of the Attorneys General identify emerging problems and solutions in healthcare regulation. This year's educational program included presentations on several critical issues, including chiropractic mobility, regulatory ethics, sunset reviews, licensure exams and services of the National Board of Chiropractic Examiners, the effective use of settlement agreements, regulatory leadership and several other topics.

The NCC needs energetic people to participate in order to protect the safety of the public in Nevada and the rights of the silver state's chiropractic physicians. If you are an NCC member, get involved. If you are not a member yet, join.
